

Good afternoon!

I'm reaching out to share an opportunity that may be of interest to producers and agricultural operators in your network.

Saskatchewan Open Farm Days is returning this August, and they are currently inviting farms and ranches to register as hosts (deadline to register is April 1st!). Saskatchewan Open Farm Days is a province-wide event that "connects visitors with real, working farms and ranches to experience where their food comes from and meet the people behind it." The program continues to grow in impact, recently receiving the Rookie of the Year Award at the 2025 Hospitality Saskatchewan Tourism Awards.

If you're able, I would greatly appreciate you sharing this opportunity with your ratepayers, members, or contacts. Your reach within the agricultural community is invaluable in helping make this initiative a success across southwest Saskatchewan.

Here are the links for interested producers to access more information:

If anyone has questions, I'm more than happy to connect with them and direct them to a contact in SK Open Farm Days as well!

Thank you for helping spread the word and support local agriculture!

Best,

Anna Robertson
